Reds Tighten Trap
Around Nazi Army

Germans Said to Have Left 10,000 Dead on Central Front

(By The Associated Press)
Sea-borne Russian troops, striking back into the Crimea at many points, were reported tightening a trap around Adolf Hitler's siege armies at Sevastopol today, while on the central front, retreating Nazi forces were said to have left 10,000 dead on the battlefield and yielded 572 towns in five days.

At the same time, the Germans acknowledged a heavy Soviet push in the Donets river valley of the Ukraine against the industrial city of Kharkov, Russia's "Pittsburgh."

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters asserted that Russian troops who landed from barges at Yevpatoriya, on the west Crimean coast 40 miles north of Sevastopol, had been wiped out "in brisk house-to-house fighting."

Countering the German version, a London radio broadcast reported that the Russians had established a beachhead, that "heavy fighting is going on along the shore" at Yevpatoriya, and that German forces were moving north from Sevastopol to combat the threat at their rear.

The German high command also asserted that Rumanian soldiers had "smashed" a small Soviet landing party southwest of Feodosiya, in the eastern Crimea, and declared that Nazi dive-bombers "effectively attacked" other Russian troops landed on the peninsula.

In the Ukraine, Hitler's headquarters admitted that the Soviet counter-offensive had breached German lines northeast of Kharkov, but declared that German troops counter-attacked and succeeded in straightening out the front.

Meanwhile, diplomatic quarters in Turkey said general mobilization was under way in Rumania and Hungary, with the Germans trying to muster all possible manpower to check the retreat in Russia.

Soviet informants said Russia expected to drive the invaders behind the Leningrad-Smolensk-Dnieper river line—more than 200 miles west of Moscow—around Feb. 1, "turning the Nazi retreat into a military catastrophe in the bitterest part of the winter."

Advices reaching London said the pace of the Russian counter-sweep was increasing as reinforcements poured steadily into Red army lines.

The picture of the fast-changing front, as sketched by latest reports and official communiques, follows:

From the main northern anchor at Leningrad, the Russian line extends 280 miles southeast to Vyssokoe, 45 miles west of Kalinin; thence through Staritsa in a sweeping arc menacing German-held Moshaisk, 57 miles west of Moscow, with Soviet troops striking from Volkolamsk, Narofominsk, Borovsk, Maloyaroslavl, Kaluga and Mzensk. Mzensk knives into German-held territory 140 miles southwest of Moscow.

From Mzensk, the line runs southeast to Belev; then 150 miles southeast to Tim, 40 miles east of Kurks; thence 250 miles south along the Donets river to near Stalino; and southeast 80 miles to Toganog on the Sea of Azov.

The British radio said Russian troops had crossed the upper Donets—perhaps in the region of Kharkov, which lies 250 miles northeast of Taganrog.

It's In the Cards
Nazis May Bomb U. S. from Zeppelins

Washington, Jan. 7—(AP)—Responsible military officials said today it is "definitely in the cards" that Germany may use her Zeppelins in token raids on east coast cities of the United States.

The Nazis, these sources believe, still have the two dirigibles which bore the swastika at the war's outbreak—the transatlantic veteran, Graf Zeppelin, and the great LZ-130, sister ship of the Hindenburg which was destroyed by fire at Lakehurst, N. J., in 1937.

Either dirigible could be fitted to carry up to ten bombers within easy striking distance of the Atlantic coast and could hover off shore while the planes loosed destruction on the cities, experts here said. Or the zeppelins, themselves, could undertake a suicide mission and do their own bombing.

Possibility Cited by FDR
President Roosevelt, in his message to congress yesterday, acknowledged that the enemy might try air attacks on great population centers in an attempt at "terrorizing our people" and undermining morale.

In the east, navy aircraft experts noted, the tendency was to think of such a possibility in terms of surface aircraft carriers, but they recalled the well-authenticated report that Germany built a dirigible in the first World War for the express purpose of bombing New York.

This ship was the LZ-70, the largest airship produced by the reich in that conflict. Germany was beaten before the raid could be made and the ship was destroyed.

The Graf Zeppelin probably could better the Hindenburg's trans-Atlantic crossing time of 55 hours; for it cruises at 70 miles an hour and has a top speed of 85.

Japanese Repeat
Carpet Bag Trick

Washington, Jan. 7—(AP)—The Japanese are repeating in the Philippines the looting methods they developed in China—equipping their troops with "carpet bags" literally stuffed with stage money.

From those "carpet bags" in every town and village the Japanese swept through in China came an endless flow of paper money not worth the poor quality of paper on which it was printed.

With those scraps of paper the Japanese created a bayonet-pointed inflation, robbed the Chinese of millions of dollars and stripped the country of practically all movable property or produce. By setting up special banks to print more bogus money they sought to wreck the entire Chinese financial structure.

Disclosed by General
General MacArthur disclosed in communique No. 43 that invading Japanese troops are circulating large quantities of paper money imitating the color and texture of Philippine currency but substituting the Japanese government for the commonwealth government as the issuing agency.

Japanese carpet-baggers flocked to China in the wake of the Japanese invading armies with bales of phony money or restricted yen notes. With it they bought all available rice, tin and other vitally needed metals, silk, linen, antiques, cotton, foodstuffs—everything that could be consumed or shipped away to their impoverished little islands—regardless of whether the Chinese or foreign producers, middlemen or agents wanted to sell for scrap paper.

In this method the Japanese army was largely fed and clothed on the countryside it conquered.

Two Elderly Women

Washington, Jan. 7—(AP)—The war department said today defenders of the Philippines are withstanding continuous bombing and machine-gunning on their tight front east of Manila.

The fortifications on Corrigador island, at the entrance of Manila bay, and defenses on nearby Batan peninsula were bombed again for several hours yesterday, and the war department said the extent of damage and casualties has not yet been determined.

At least 45 bombers rained explosives on the fortifications.

Several hits on the invaders' planes were recorded.

On the entire front, with the American and Philippine defenders drawing their forces together in the peninsula of the occupied Capital city, there was heavy fighting and increasing pressure but the soldiers of General Douglas MacArthur were making valiant resistance.

The text of the communique, number 49, based on reports received here up to 8:30 a. m., CST today:

Text of Communique
"1. Philippine theater: Heavy fighting has been resumed along the entire front with the enemy increasing pressure at all points. Front lines of American and Philippine troops are being continuously bombed and machine-gunned by enemy aircraft. Defending troops are continuing their steady and valiant resistance."

"The fortifications on Corrigador island and installations on Batan peninsula again were bombed for several hours yesterday. The extent of damage and casualties has not yet been determined. It is estimated that at least forty-five bombers participated in this attack. Several hostile planes were hit by our anti-aircraft fire."

Registrations for Defense Here Lag

Registration for the local Civilian Defense council, probably because of the holidays, is reported to be slow in many departments, it was stated today at the office of City Clerk Wayne C. Smith where the registrations are received. Air raid wardens topped the list of registrations today and several individuals had registered for first aid workers, auxiliary police and emergency nursing.

Important departments in which registrations were noticeably lacking were: women prepared to cook and serve, nurses aids and trained women, first aid station and trained electricians. Many departments are open for volunteer workers in the event of an emergency in Dixon or vicinity and citizens are requested to consider the several departments and file their registrations as early as possible, preferably in person by calling at the city clerk's office in the city hall.

95,567 Massacres
Charged Against
Germans by Reds

Moscow, Jan. 7—(AP)—German troops were formally charged by Soviet Russia today with massacring 95,567 persons in 13 cities and countless hundreds elsewhere in an occupation marked by "unheard of pillages, general devastation, abominable violence."

Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov said in a detailed note handed yesterday to all envoys accredited to Moscow that "German authorities legalized marauding in their army and encouraged these pillages and violence."

Slaying of civilians was said to have been accomplished by explosives, suffocation, knifing or hanging as well as shooting.

These specific figures were presented on the number slain in the following towns:

Kiev 52,000; Dnieperopetrovsk, 10,500; Kamensk Podolsk 8,500; Odessa 8,000; Kerch 7,000; Lvov (Poland) 6,000; Mariupol, 3,000.

"Utter Moral Degradation"

Thousands of civilians were forced into hazardous war labor in violation of international conventions, food and clothing were stripped from the defenseless and hundreds of homes were burned, Molotov asserted, all testifying to the "utter moral degradation and corruption of Hitler's army."

Molotov said refugees from Kiev described this a mass execution of Jewish men, women and children at a Jewish cemetery:

"All of them were stripped naked and beaten up. The first group of people selected for shooting was forced to lie on the bottom of a ditch, faces down, and were shot with automatic rifles. Then the Germans threw a little earth over them. The next group of people awaiting execution was put on top of them in a second row and shot and so on."

A copy was also sent to Joseph Eastman, Coordinator of National Transportation in Washington.

The strike against the 239 mile east-west shuttle line, entered its eleventh day today with the company still operating five locomotives manned by non-union help.

Biggest Budget in World's History is
All-Out War Demand

Doubles Nazis Annual
War Expenditures,
President Says

(Editor's Note—The complete text of President Roosevelt's budget message to congress is published on page 2 of this issue of The Telegraph.)

Washington, Jan. 7—(AP)—Bespeaking the nation's determination to "pay whatever price we must to preserve our way of life," President Roosevelt called today for a war budget of $56,000,000,000 for the next fiscal year, $9,000,000,000 of new taxes on top of all existing taxes, and unprecedented borrowing that would send the federal debt above $110,000,000,000.

"This is a war budget," he said in his annual budget message to congress. "Its magnitude and composition depend on events at the battlefronts of the world. x x x Nothing short of a maximum will suffice. I cannot predict ultimate costs because I cannot predict the changing fortunes of war. I can say only that we are determined to pay whatever price we must to preserve our way of life."

He added at a press conference that it was the biggest budget in the history of the world. Government estimates indicated it was nearly double Germany's annual war expenditures. It called the president said, for a set-up in the rate of war spending from the current $2,000,000,000 a month to $5,000,000,000 a month.

To the United States armed forces and their allies, the president promised "that the budget meant 'a crushing superiority of equipment'."

Means Heavy New Taxes
To the public he said that it meant heavy new taxes because "a fair distribution of the war burden is necessary for national unity."

It also meant, he declared, that the people would have to do without "many conveniences and luxuries" so that the nation may "shift labor, materials and facilities from the production of civilian articles to the production of weapons and other war supplies."

Technically, the budget concerned only money to be paid out of the treasury. However, in setting up the $56,000,000,000 war program, the president said that beside an estimated $2,786,186,000 out of the treasury, he believed that an additional $3,000,000,000 would be spent out of the purses of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and other non-budgetary agencies for war purposes.

The treasury budget called for total expenditures of $59,027,992,300 in the fiscal year beginning next July 1. This included the huge war item plus $1,750,000,000 for interest on the public debt, and reduced allotments for work relief, farm aid, governmental running expenses and other non-military costs.

For Heavy Borrowing
To pay for this, Roosevelt estimated there would be $16,487,200,000 of taxes from existing tax laws, asked $7,000,000,000 of new general taxes (not counting increased social security taxes, which do not count as revenues), and proposed borrowing of $35,540,792,000 from social security and other government trust funds and from the public.

In the current fiscal year, he figured, treasury expenses would total $30,675,796,162, including $23,996,525,400 for defense, and calculated that taxes would yield $11,943,993,000, leaving a deficit of $18,731,803,162 to be covered by borrowing.

This meant that the World War spending peak of $18,522,000,000 would be passed this fiscal year and approximately tripled next year.

The president asked congress for an initial appropriation of $13,600,000,000 to get the huge new war program under way, and said he would ask for additional large amounts as the nation moved toward maximum war production.

More S. S. Taxes
In his tax program, the president asked for approximately $2,000,000,000 of added social security taxes plus $7,000,000,000 of income, excess profits, estate and gift, and excise taxes. He approved of almost any kind of new taxes except a general sales tax—and he indicated that even that

Price Control Bill
Submitted to Upper House of Congress

Prices Prevailing Oct. 1 to 15 This Year Would Be Guide

Washington, Jan. 7—(AP)—Senator Brown (D-Mich) brought the administration price control bill before the senate for consideration today with a declaration that it had become necessary to avert a "tremendous rise in prices."

"Price control is necessary in the present situation," Brown said, "because the law of supply and demand does not operate to maintain a fair equilibrium of prices."

"The law of supply and demand breaks down because of the enormous demand for war materials, and we have a situation where the supply is insufficient if ordinary civilian consumption is not curtailed."

Brown told his colleagues that the measure was also needed "so that enormous profits will not be obtained as they were obtained in the last war."

"If you can give an effective, over-all control of prices to a hard-boiled, hard-hitting, unafraid price administrator," he continued, "we can do more than by any tax bill we could write in preventing exorbitant profits out of war."

Explaining the functioning of the bill, Brown said it would establish a general parity between prices based on the period from Oct. 1 to 15, 1941.

Principal Guide
The relationships between prices at that period, he told the senate, would provide the "principal guide and limitation on the price administrator". Prices would remain untouched, Brown added, if they remained at or below the Oct. 1 to 15 level.

Direct backing of President Roosevelt was claimed today by senate leaders opposing a farm block proposal to give the secretary of agriculture veto power in applying wartime controls to farm prices.

Brown said after a White House conference that the president favored a single administrator to curb the prices of all commodities, including farm products.

Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.), who said he would offer the farm bloc proposal to require prior approval by the secretary for any price-fixing order affecting agricultural staples, claimed support of 42 senators as the chamber began debate on the bill.

Brown conceded that the vote on the Bankhead amendment would be "very close", but said administration forces expected to win this test by a few votes.

The War Today!

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst
(Telegraph Special Service)

President Roosevelt has thrust aside the curtains and shown us the vastness of the resources whereby the allies are certain to win the war—and already that is driving anti-axis morale up to fever heat around the world.

The Muscovites today report that the pace of their devastating offensive against the cold-blooded Hitlerian forces is intensifying—and that's good news.

The conquest-hungry Japs continue to push the British back down the Malayan peninsula toward the great naval base of Singapore, thereby increasing the threat to this keystone of allied defense in the Far East—and that's bad news.

All these events clamoring for the headlines thrust into the background another vital matter. That is what our attitude—and what the whole allied attitude—ought to be towards Nazi-ridden France.

Upon that question hangs great developments, and they will be for or against the allied cause in accordance with the way the situation is handled now. France is crippled, but the empire still retains a potential power of tremendous possibilities. There are her colonial and home military bases, her navy and her spirit of cooperation.

The moral support of France, even in defeat, is a mighty thing. It is vital to the allies, just as it is essential to Hitler who is straining every nerve to swing these victims of his military Frankenstein into his camp.

The point is whether we and our allies are going to adopt an attitude of sympathetic cooperation with the French people and thus help them to avoid being drawn completely into the Nazi chief's power, or whether France is to be continually branded as a renegade and thus be driven into the Fuehrer's arms. If short, are we to trust the French?

In answering this question we must start from the premise that the pro-Nazi section of the Vichy government and the people of France are not one and the same thing. A lot of people have been inclined to regard them as identical, and rivers of venom have been poured on France as a whole because in the Vichy government are a number of pro-Nazi leaders who are willing to barter their birthright for a mess of evil smelling pottage.

The indications are many that the vast majority of the French people are anti-German and pro-ally. And one of the people, or so it seems to me, is old Marshal Pétain, chief of state. The signs seem to read that the Hero of Verdun is a true representative of his people, whom he is trying to serve as best he can under terrible

Quick Adjournment of Special Session of Assembly Likely

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 7—(AP)—Governor Green's bill to double the state highway police force was defeated overwhelmingly today in the house. Needing 102 votes for emergency passage, the bill received only 70 with Democratic legislators opposing it almost unanimously.

The vote was 70 to 51 with seven Republicans failing to vote the roll call and two Democrats voting in favor of the measure. Republicans had hoped to save the bill by striking its emergency clause, so as to permit passage by a simple majority of 77 votes, but the lack of support thwarted even that last-ditch move.

The police expansion plan was a key bill in Governor Green's $16,000,000 state defense program and he had waged a strenuous campaign to put it through the assembly. The bill originally called for 1,000 officers but was cut to 700, twice the present number of patrolmen, by a GOP compromise

Text of Roosevelt's Message Asking $9,000,000,000 New Taxes

Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's budget message to congress follows:

To the Congress of the United States:

I am submitting herewith the budget of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1943. It is the budget of a nation at war in a world at war.

In practical terms the budget meets the challenge of the axis powers. We must provide the funds to man and equip our fighting forces. We must provide the funds for the organization of our resources. We must provide the funds to continue our role as the arsenal of democracy.

Powerful enemies must be out-fought and outproduced. Victory depends on the courage, skill, and devotion of the men in the American, British, Russian, Chinese, and Dutch forces, and of the others who join hands with us in the fight for freedom. But victory also depends upon efforts behind the lines—in the mines, in the shops, on the farms.

We cannot outfight our enemies unless, at the same time, we out-produce our enemies. It is not enough to turn out just a few more planes, a few more tanks, a few more guns, a few more ships, than can be turned out by our enemies. We must outproduce them overwhelmingly, so that there can be no question of our ability to provide a crushing superiority of equipment in any theater of the World War.

And we shall succeed. A system of free enterprise is more effective than an "order" of concentration camps. The struggle for liberty first made us a nation. The vitality, strength, and adaptability of a social order built on freedom and individual responsibility will again triumph.

THE WAR PROGRAM

Our present war program was preceded by a defense effort which began as we emerged from the long depression. During the past 18 months we laid the foundation for a huge armament program. At the same time industry provided ample consumers' goods for a rapidly growing number of workers. Hundreds of thousands of new homes were constructed; the production of consumers' durable goods broke all records. The industrial plant and equipment of the country were overhauled and expanded.

Adjustment to a war program can now be made with greater speed and less hardship. The country is better stocked with durable goods. Our factories are better equipped to carry the new production load. The larger national income facilities financing the war effort.

There are still unused resources for agricultural and industrial production. These must be drawn into the national effort. Shortages, however, have developed in skilled labor, raw materials, machines, and shipping. Under the expanding war program, more and more productive capacity must be shifted from peacetime to wartime work.

Last year fiscal policy was used to shift the economy into high gear. Today it is an instrument for transforming our peace economy into a war economy. This transformation must be completed with minimum friction and maximum speed. The fiscal measures which I outline in this message are essential elements in the nation's war program.

WAR APPROPRIATIONS

This is a war budget. The details of a war program are, of course, in constant flux. Its magnitude and composition depend on events at the battlefronts of the world, on naval engagements at sea, and on new developments in mechanized warfare. Moreover, war plans are military secrets.

Under these circumstances I cannot hereafter present details of future war appropriations, and expenditures will be published so that the public may know the fiscal situation and the progress of the nation's effort.

The defense program, including appropriations, contract authorizations, recommendations, and commitments of government corporations, was 29 billion dollars on January 3, 1941. During the last 12 months 46 billion dollars have been added to the program. Of this total of 75 billion dollars there remains 24 billion dollars for future obligation.

In this budget I make an initial request for a war appropriation of 13.6 billion dollars for the fiscal year 1943. Large supplemental requests will be made as we move toward the maximum use of productive capacity. Nothing short of a maximum will suffice. I cannot predict ultimate costs because I cannot predict the changing fortunes of war. I can only say that we are determined to pay whatever price we must to preserve our way of life.

WAR EXPENDITURES

Total war expenditures are now running at a rate of 2 billion dollars a month and may surpass 5 billion dollars a month during the fiscal year 1943. As against probable budgetary war expenditures of 24 billion dollars for the current fiscal year, our present objective calls for war expenditures of nearly 53 billion dollars for the fiscal year 1943. In addition, net outlays of government corporations for war purposes are estimated at about 2 and 3 billion dollars for the current and the next fiscal year, respectively.

These huge expenditures for ships, planes, and other war equipment will require prompt conversion of a large portion of our industrial establishment to war production. These estimates reflect our determination to devote at least one-half of our national production to the war effort.

The agencies responsible for the administration of this vast program must make certain that every dollar is speedily converted into a maximum of war effort. We are determined to hold waste to a minimum.

CIVIL FUNCTIONS OF GOVERNMENT

In a true sense, there are no longer nondefense expenditures. It is a part of our war effort to maintain civilian services which are essential to the basic needs of human life. In the same way it is necessary in wartime to conserve our natural resources and keep in repair our national plant. We cannot afford waste or destruction, for we must continue to think of the good of future generations of Americans. For example, we must maintain fire protection in our forests; and we must maintain control over destructive floods. In the preparation of the present budget, expenditures not directly related to the war have been reduced to a minimum or reoriented to the war program.

We all know that the war will bring hardships and require adjustment. Assisting those who suffer in the process of transformation and taxing those who benefit from the war are integral parts of our national program. It is estimated that expenditures for the major federal assistance programs—farm aid, work relief, youth aid—can be reduced by 600 million dollars from the previous current fiscal year, and again by 860 million dollars from the current to the next fiscal year. These programs will require 1.4 billion dollars during the fiscal year 1943, about one-half of the expenditures for these purposes during the fiscal year 1941.

Improved economic conditions during the current year have made possible the execution of economic and social programs with smaller funds than were originally estimated. By using methods of administrative budget control, 415 million dollars of appropriations for civil purposes have been placed in reserves.

Excluding debt charges and grants under the social security law, total expenditures for other than direct war purposes have been reduced by slightly more than 1 billion dollars in the next fiscal year.

AGRICULTURAL AID—I propose to include contract authorizations in the budget to assure the farmer a parity return on his 1942 crop, largely payable in the fiscal year 1944. I do not suggest a definite appropriation at this time because developments of farm income and farm prices are too uncertain. Agricultural incomes and prices have increased and we hope to limit the price rise of the products actually bought by the farmer. But if price developments should turn against the farmer, an appropriation will be needed to carry out the parity objective of the agricultural adjustment act.

The remaining expenditures for the agricultural program are being brought into accord with the war effort. Food is essential war material. I propose to continue the soil conservation and use program on a moderately reduced scale. Acreage control by cooperative efforts of farmer and government was inaugurated in a period of over-production in almost all lines of farming. Then its major objective was the curtailment of production to halt a catastrophic decline in farm prices. At present, although there is still excess production in some types of farming, serious shortages prevail in other types. The present program is designed to facilitate a balanced increase in production and to aid in controlling prices.

WORKS PROJECTS—The average number of WPA workers was two million in the fiscal year 1940, the year before the defense program started; the average has been cut to one million this year. With increasing employment a further considerable reduction will be possible. I believe it will be necessary to make some provision for work relief during the next year. I estimate tentatively that 465 million dollars will be needed for WPA but I shall submit a specific request later in the year. Workers of certain types and in certain regions of the country probably will not all be absorbed by war industries. It is better to provide useful work for the unemployed on public projects than to lose their productive power through idleness. Wherever feasible they will be employed on war projects.

Material shortages are creating the problem of "priority unemployment." I hope the workers affected will be reemployed by expanding war industries before their unemployment compensation ceases. Some of the workers affected will not, however, be eligible for such compensation and may be in need of assistance.

Rather than rely on relief a determined effort should be made to speed up reemployment in defense plants. I have, therefore, instructed the Office of Production Management to join the procurement agencies in an effort to place contracts with those industries forced to cut their peacetime production. The ingenuity of American management has already adapted some industries to war production. Standardization and substitution are doing their part in maintaining production. Ever-increasing use of sub-contracts are of paramount importance for making the fullest use of our resources. The newly nationalized employment service will greatly help unemployed workers in obtaining employment.

AIDS TO YOUTH—Under war conditions there is need and opportunity for youth to serve in many ways. It is therefore possible to make a considerable reduction in the programs of the civilian conservation corps and the national youth administration. The youth, too, will be aided by the United States employment service in finding employment opportunities.

Although I am estimating 100 million dollars for these two agencies, excluding 50 million dollars for defense training, it is probable that the total amount will not be needed. I am postponing until next spring presentation to the congress of specific recommendations as to youth aid.

PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAM—The public works program is being fully adjusted to the war effort. The general program of 578 million dollars includes those projects necessary for increasing production of hydroelectric power, for flood control, and for river and harbor work related to military needs. Federal aid for highways will be expended only for construction essential for strategic purposes. Other highway projects will be deferred until the post-war period. For all other federal construction I am restricting expenditures to those active projects which cannot be discontinued without endangering the structural work now in progress.

CIVIL DEPARTMENTS AND AGENCIES—The work of the civil departments and agencies is undergoing thorough reorientation. Established agencies will be used to the greatest possible extent for defense services. Many agencies have already made such readjustment. All civil activities of the government are being focused on the war program.

Federal Grants and Debt Service—A few categories of civil expenditures show an increase. Under existing legislation federal grants to match the appropriations for public assistance made by the individual states will increase by 73 million dollars. I favor an amendment to the social security act which would modify matching grants to accord with the needs of the various states. Such legislation would probably not affect expenditures substantially during the next fiscal year.

Because of heavy federal borrowing, interest charges are expected to increase by 139 million dollars in the current fiscal year, and by another 500 million dollars in the fiscal year 1943. Debt service is, of course, affected by war spending.

COORDINATION OF POLICIES

The fiscal policy of the federal government, especially with respect to public works, is being reinforced by that of state and local governments. Executive committees of the Council of State Governments and the Governor's Conference have issued excellent suggestions for harmonizing various aspects of state and local fiscal policy with national objectives. These governments are readjusting many of their services so as to expedite the war program. Many are making flexible plans for the post-war readjustment and some are accumulating financial reserves for that purpose. At present, although there is still excess production in some types of farming, serious shortages prevail in other types. The present program is designed to facilitate a balanced increase in production and to aid in controlling prices.

FINANCING THE WAR

Determination, skill, and material are the three great necessities for victory. Methods of financing may impair or strengthen these essentials. Sound fiscal policies are those which will help win the war. A fair distribution of the war burden is necessary for national unity. A balanced financial program will stimulate the productivity of the nation and assure maximum output of war equipment.

With total war expenditures, including net outlays of government corporation, estimated at 26 billion dollars for the current fiscal year and almost 56 billion dollars for the fiscal year 1943, war finance is a task of tremendous magnitude requiring a concerted program of action.

RECEIPTS UNDER LEGISLATION

Total receipts from existing tax legislation will triple under the defense and war programs. They are expected to increase from 6 billion dollars in the fiscal year 1940 to 18 billion dollars in the fiscal year 1943. This increase is due partly to the expansion of economic activities and partly to tax legislation enacted during the last two years. As we approach full use of our resources, further increases in revenue next year must come predominantly from new tax measures rather than from a greater tempo of economic activity. Taxes on incomes, estates, and corporate profits are showing the greatest increase. Yields from employment taxes are increasing half as fast; and the yields from excise taxes are increasing more slowly; customs are falling off. On the whole, our tax system has become more progressive since the defense effort started.

DEFICITS UNDER PRESENT LAWS

The estimate of deficits must be tentative and subject to later revision. The probable net outlay of the budget and government corporations, excluding revenues from any new taxes, will be 20.9 billion dollars for the current fiscal year, and 45.4 billion dollars for the fiscal year 1943. Borrowing from trust funds will reduce the amounts which must be raised by taxation and borrowing from the public by about 2 billion dollars in the fiscal year 1942 and 2.8 billion dollars in the fiscal year 1943.

D—This increase to be invested in government bonds.

In estimating expenditure and receipts, only a moderate rise in prices has been assumed. Since expenditures are affected by rising prices more rapidly than are revenues, a greater price increase would further increase the deficit.

NEED FOR ADDITIONAL TAXES

In view of the tremendous deficits, I reemphasize my request of last year that war expenditures be financed as far as possible by taxation. When so many Americans are contributing all their energies and even their lives to the nation's great task, I am confident that all Americans will be proud to contribute their utmost in taxes. Until this job is done, until this war is won, we will not talk of burdens.

I believe that 7 billion dollars in additional taxes should be collected during the fiscal year 1943. Under new legislation proposed later in this message, social security trust funds will increase by 2 billion dollars. Thus new means of financing would provide a total of 9 billion dollars in the fiscal year 1943.

Specific proposals to accomplish this end will be transmitted in the near future. In this message I shall limit by recommendations on war finance to the broad outline of a program.

Tax programs too often follow the line of least resistance. The present task definitely requires enactment of a well-balanced program which takes account of revenue requirements, equity, and economic necessities.

There are those who suggest that the policy of progressive taxation should be abandoned for the duration of the war because these taxes do not curtail consumers' demand. The emergency does require measures of a restrictive nature which impose sacrifices on all of us. But such sacrifices are themselves the most compelling argument for making progressive taxes more effective. The anti-inflationary aspect of taxation should supplement, not supplant, its revenue and equity aspects.

PROGRESSIVE TAXES

Progressive taxes are the backbone of the federal tax system. In recent years much progress has been made in perfecting income, estate, gift, and profit taxation but numerous loopholes still exist. Because some taxpayers use them to avoid taxes, other taxpayers must pay more. The higher the tax rates the more urgent it becomes to close the loopholes. Exemptions in estate and gift taxation should be lowered. The privileged treatment given certain types of business in corporate income taxation should be reexamined.

It seems right and just that no further tax-exempt bonds should be issued. We no longer issue United States tax-exempt bonds and it is my personal belief that the income from state, municipal, and authority bonds is taxable under the income-tax amendment to the Constitution. As a matter of equity I recommend legislation to tax all future issues of this character.

Excessive profits undermine unity and should be recaptured. The fact that a corporation had large profits before the defense been planned to increase the number of persons covered and to provide protection against hazards not initially included. By expanding the program now, we advance the organic development of our social security system and at the same time contribute to the anti-inflationary program.

I recommend an increase in the coverage of old-age and survivors' insurance, addition of permanent and temporary disability payments and hospitalization payments beyond the present benefit programs, and liberalization and expansion of unemployment compensation in a uniform national system. I suggest that collection of additional contributions be started as soon as possible, to be followed one year later by the operations of the new benefit plans.

Additional employer and employee contributions will cover increased disbursements over a long period of time. Increased contributions would result in reserves of several billion dollars for post-war contingencies. The present accumulation of these contributions would absorb excess purchasing power. Investment of the additional reserves in bonds of the United States government would assist in financing the war.

The existing administrative machinery for collecting pay-roll taxes can function immediately. For this reason congressional consideration might be given to immediate enactment of this proposal, while other necessary measures are being perfected.

I estimate that the social security trust funds would be increased through the proposed legislation by 2 billion dollars during the fiscal year 1943.

FLEXIBILITY IN TAX SYSTEM

Our fiscal situation makes imperative the greatest possible flexibility in our tax system. The congress should consider the desirability of tax legislation which makes possible quick adjustment in the timing of tax rates and collections during an emergency period.

MENACE OF INFLATION

The war program requires not only substantially increased taxes but also greatly increased borrowing. After adjusting for additional tax collections and additional accumulation in social security trust funds, borrowing from the public in the current and the next fiscal year would be nearly 19 billion dollars and 34 billion dollars, respectively. The adjustments are indicated in the preceding table.

Much smaller deficits during the fiscal year 1941 were associated with a considerable increase in prices. Part of this increase was a recovery from depression lows. A moderate price rise, accompanied by an adjustment of wage rates, probably facilitated the increase in production and the defense effort. Another part of the price rise, however, was undesirable and must be attributed to the delays in enacting adequate measures of price control.

With expenditures and deficits multiplied, the threat of inflation will apparently be much greater. There is, however, a significant difference between conditions as they were in the fiscal year 1941 and those prevailing under a full war program. Last year, defense expenditures so stimulated private capital outlays that intensified use of private funds and private credit added to the inflationary pressure created by public spending.

Under a full war program, however, most of the increase in expenditures will replace private capital outlays rather than add to them. Allocations and priorities, necessitated by shortages of material, are now in operation; they curtail private outlays for consumers' durable goods, private and public construction, expansion and even replacements in nondefense expenditures and, therefore, to the private funds available for noninflationary financing of the government deficit.

This factor will contribute substantially to financing the tremendous war effort without disruptive price rises and without necessitating a departure from our low-interest-rate policy. The remaining inflationary pressure will be large but manageable. It will be without power to control it if we adopt a comprehensive program of additional anti-inflationary measures.

ANTI-INFLATIONARY PROGRAM

A great variety of measures is necessary in order to shift labor, materials, and facilities from the production of civilian articles to the production of weapons and other war supplies. Taxes can aid in speeding these shifts by cutting nonessential civilian spending. Our resources are such that even with the projected huge war expenditures we can maintain a standard of living more than adequate to support the health and productivity of our people. But we must forego many conveniences and luxuries.

The system of allocations—rationing on the business level—should be extended and made fully effective, especially with relation to inventory control.

I do not at present propose general consumer ration cards. There are not as yet scarcities in the necessities of life which make such a step imperative. Consumers' rationing has been introduced, however, in specific commodities for which scarcities have developed. We shall profit by this experience if a more general system of rationing ever becomes necessary.

I appeal for the voluntary cooperation of the consumer in our national effort. Restraint in consumption, especially of scarce products, may make necessary fewer compulsory measures. Hoarding should be encouraged in only one field, that of Defense Savings Bonds. Economies in consumption and the purchase of Defense Savings Bonds will facilitate financing war costs and the shift from a peace to a war economy.

An integrated program, including direct price controls, a flexible tax policy, allocations, rationing, and credit controls, together with producers' and consumers' cooperation will enable us to finance the war effort without danger of inflation. This is a difficult task. But it must be done and it can be done.

INCREASE IN FEDERAL DEBT

On the basis of tentative budget estimates, including new taxes, the federal debt will increase from 43 billion dollars in June 1940, when the defense program began, to 110 billion dollars 3 years later. This increase in federal indebtedness covers also the future capital demands of government corporations. About 2 billion dollars of this increase will result from the redemption of notes of government corporations guaranteed by the federal government.

These debt levels require an increase in the annual interest from 1 billion dollars in 1940 to above 2.5 billion dollars at the end of fiscal year 1943. Such an increase in interest requirements will prevent us from some time after the war from lowering taxes to the extent otherwise possible. The import of this fact will depend greatly on economic conditions in the post-war period.

Facing 2.5 billions out of an extremely low national income we impose an excessive burden on taxpayers while the same payment out of a 100-billion-dollar national income, after reduction of armament expenditures, may still permit substantial tax reductions in the post-war period.

If we contract a heavy debt at relatively high prices and must pay service charges in a period of deflated prices, we shall be forced to impose excessive taxes. Our capacity to carry a large debt in a post-war period without undue hardship depends mainly on our ability to maintain a high level of employment and production. I am confident that by prompt action we shall control the price development now and that we shall prevent the recurrence of a deep depression in the post-war period. There must be no fiscal barriers to our war effort and to victory.

Aviation Industry Faces Biggest Job in Nation's History

Control of Air on All Battle Fronts is Aim Of United Nations

New York, Jan. 7.—(Wide World)—The most stupendous single industrial effort this country ever has been called upon to execute was outlined by President Roosevelt when he advised congress that the objective this year was 60,000 warplanes and, for next year, 125,000.

Roughly, that will mean the employment of as many as 1,400,000 persons in the manufacture of planes, engines and propellers. At peak production the American automobile industry employs less than 500,000 persons.

Obvious in the President's message was the strategy which the allied nations propose to employ in fighting the axis on three continents—securing domination of the air and, through that, ultimate victory.

Except for sporadic instances, and at scattered points, air superiority consistently has rested with the axis powers since the start of the war in 1939. Only when Germany transferred air units to the Russian front last summer did England gain actual dominance of the air over the English Channel.

Air inferiority led to the pronounced Japanese inroads in the Philippines, and until recent days a lack of air support harried British troops in Malaya.

Will Be Uphill Fight

For a time at least the fight to gain domination of the air will be uphill. The United States, by choice, withheld planes from its army air forces in favor of nations battling the axis, until the attack on Pearl Harbor.

The job outlined by the President will not be simple either in the manufacture of planes or in training of the vast army of men to fly, fight in and service them. Only 19 months have elapsed since increased production and training were asked for, and it is only 16 months since it actually began.

Fortunately, the United States aviation industry already was committed to deliver thousands of airplanes to France and England, and a considerable amount of plant expansion had taken place. The output of war planes during 1941 was just under 20,000, including trainers which cannot be used for combat. That was eight times the production in the year 1939.

Aircraft engine plants have reached a monthly production rate of nearly 6,000,000 horsepower, of 12 times the rate at the outbreak of the European war in 1939.

The problem of achieving the air power implied in the President's message is three-fold; assuring adequate fabricating materials, chiefly aluminum; training ever-increasing numbers of workmen, and, finally, training an air army. Of the three ingredients of American air power, perhaps most important at the moment are raw materials and trained fighting men. Until the training program reaches its apex, the army frankly expects airplanes to roll off the assembly lines faster than they can be absorbed—even counting on exports under the lease-lend program.

SHORTEST RAILROADS

The shortest railroad in the United States, only one mile long, is at Westline, Pa., but it derives its revenue from its switching service and freight. The shortest railroad to carry passengers and mail runs between Beaufort and Morehead City, N. C., and is 3.3 miles long.

WORLD'S OLDEST

What is said to be the oldest musical instrument in the world was found in the Pollau mountains of Czechoslovakia. It is a musical pipe, estimated to be about 30,000 years old, and is made from the tooth of an animal.

Mrs. Bardwell Is Phidian Speaker at Schuler Home

Facts and legends pertaining to jewels, their history and origin were related by Mrs. H. U. Bardwell in a paper, "Old Gems and New Jewels," read yesterday afternoon before members of the Phidian Art club, who were guests of Mrs. Dement Schuler at her East Boyd street home. Lending still further interest to the afternoon's program, antique jewelry was displayed by several clubwomen, including Mrs. E. E. Wingert, Mrs. W. A. McNichols, Mrs. Arthur Morris, Mrs. Harry Warner, and Mrs. John Davies.

"Jewels and gems present a long and fascinating story," Mrs. Bardwell told her listeners, "a story beginning with prehistoric man. Some precious stones may break and disintegrate, but the real ones are probably the most indestructible substance on earth. Sixty million years ago, opals were being formed in Australia, while diamonds were developing in South Africa."

One writer, the speaker continued, calls gems "the flowers of the mineral kingdom," and they are flowers that never fade. A century-old jewel, she stated, is as lovely as one discovered yesterday.

Coral and pearls are animal products, the clubwomen learned. Amber and jet are of the vegetable kingdom, and all other gems are mineral. Diamonds, rubies, emeralds, sapphires and pearls were listed as precious gems, and semi-precious stones mentioned were turquoise, carnelian, crystals, topaz, and agate.

The diamond fields of Asia, Mrs. Bardwell said, were discovered so long ago that there are no records concerning them. The diamond was known chiefly as a tool, because of its hardness, and it was with this tool that Moses is supposed to have cut the Commandments on a tablet of sapphire, or lapis lazuli.

In the 13th century, diamonds were found in India, and legend, history and romance surround some of the largest diamonds. One, a large blue stone, was purchased by Sir Thomas Hope for $90,000, and later sold to Edward McLean of Washington for $300,000.

Next to the diamond, the speaker said, is the pearl, considered the most aristocratic of gems and having graced the most aristocratic of people. Karat for karat, however, the ruby is the most precious stone. Solomon, Mrs. Bardwell commented, placed a high value on rubies when he said wisdom was more precious. Approximately 18 jewels were mentioned in the Bible, including sapphires, amethysts, emeralds, onyx, jasper, agate, beryl, and sardonyx.

"Prejudice," Mrs. Bardwell stated, "compels me to mention my favorite stone—the turquoise, because it lives with one, becoming not an ornament to be added, but a part of oneself. Among the 42 different minerals found in our own United States, the turquoise is one of the most heavily mined."

Smilax and narcissi made an attractive tea table, where Miss Anna Geisenheimer and Mrs. R. M. Ferguson poured.

Teacher Is Bride

Mrs. Robert Bott

Before her marriage in Kahoka, Mo., Dec. 30, Mrs. Bott was Miss Marion C. Ackert. The bride, who is a daughter of the H. L. Ackerts of South Dixon township, teaches the Pleasant Hill school in Carroll county. Mr. Bott, a son of the Fred Botts of 704 Nachusa, is with the Reynolds Wire company. The couple have taken an apartment at 812 First street.

DANEKAS-KELLEN MARRIAGE VOWS ARE ANNOUNCED

Mrs. Nicholas Kellen of Amboy is making known the marriage of her daughter, Margaret, to Herbert Danekas of Mendota, which took place August 30, 1941, at Union, Mo. The Rev. Hubert Preil performed the single ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Coffey of Mendota, the bridegroom's brother-in-law and sister, attended the couple. The bride wore aqua blue jersey.

Mrs. Danekas is employed in the office of the Lee County Agricultural Conservation association. The bridegroom is with the George C. Peterson company at Mendota.

The couple have taken an apartment in Amboy.

Homemakers to Meet in Urbana, Early Next Month

"The Homemaker in the Present Situation" will be the keynote of the forthcoming homemakers' conference, Feb. 2-6, during Farm and Home Week at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture. Mrs. Earl Auman of Dixon, president of the Lee County Home Bureau, and the home adviser, Miss Marian Simpson, will represent Lee county at the conference.

Geared this year to an all-out drive for victory on the home front, the conference will be brimming with lectures, demonstrations and exhibits designed to help homemakers do their part in the national program. Hundreds of Illinois women attend the sessions each year to refresh their knowledge of homemaking techniques.

Opening the four-day session will be Mrs. Kathryn Van Aken Burns, state leader of home economics extension, who will emphasize the defense contribution of the home.

Quite a bit is going to be said about modernizing the home, not only to make it a mere comfortable place in which to live, but because convenience is time saving, and, these are days, point out home economists, when a homemaker's time is not all her own.

With the knowledge that the family pocketbook is going to be pinched by payment of higher federal income taxes, the question of careful money management through the keeping of home accounts is slated for the defense program.

Always a sought-after feature is the array of home economics exhibits. Of particular importance this year will be exhibits on cotton hosiery, work clothes for women, and Latin American art.

SERVICE CLUB IS KNITTING FOR NAVY MEN

Red Cross yarn, to be knitted into watch caps for the navy, was distributed at Monday's meeting for the Service club. Mrs. Sherwood Dixon was hostess.

On Jan. 19, the clubwomen will be electing officers at the new home of Mrs. R. E. Erikson in Grand Detour.

NURSES MEET

Alumnae nurses were discussing Red Cross work last evening at a meeting in the hospital classroom. Mrs. Robert Sworn, their president, presided.

The next meeting of the association is to be held Feb. 3.

Mrs. Clyde E. Shorey of Oak Park and Grand Detour was re-elected president of the Woman's Board of Presbyterian hospital at the 58th annual meeting, held recently at the hospital chapel.

MRS. BACORN IS SHOWER HONOREE AT WALNUT HOME

Mrs. John Bacorn, the former Miss Jane Davis of Wyandot, was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower given Saturday afternoon at the Rufus Bacorn home at Walnut. Hostesses were Miss Carrie Hammerle, Mrs. Milton Burke, Mrs. Henry Albright, Mrs. Albert Guither, Mrs. Rufus Bacorn, Mrs. Arthur Kruse, and Mrs. Ben Guither.

The rooms were decorated with white streamers. A blue and white umbrella was hung above the dining room table, with numerous gift packages suspended below on white ribbons. From a clock on the living room wall, blue streamers held rhymes, revealing the hiding place for 12 additional gifts.

Mrs. Marvin Ioder had charge of a short program, including: Solos, "Bluebirds Over the White Cliffs of Dover" and "Our Love Affair," by Eleanor Diener, accompanied by Aneta Guither; reading, "A Man's Questions and a Woman's Answers," Mrs. Albert Guither; reading, "A Good Housekeeper," Miss Amanda Hoffman; "Another Bridegroom Gets a Break," Mrs. Walter Baumgartner; a mock "A. B. C." Wedding of the Misses Aneta Guither, Ellen Guither, Marge Baumgartner, Evangeline Albright, and Mrs. Harold Foss.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses to about 50 guests who were present to honor the recent bride.

A Thought for Today

God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil.—Ecclesiastes 12:14.

Man thinks, God directs.—Alcui.

All Can Serve—including Lindbergh

It is not a time to harbor past grudges, to brood over past mistakes, to moon over might-have-beens. A lot of slates were wiped clean on December 7, 1941. In a sense everything began from the beginning on that day. It is what we do now and hereafter that counts. What we thought or did not think, did or did not do, before that day when actual war came, is all tinged with unreality.

In this war for our existence, every man and woman must bear a share; every hand will be needed.

A man named Charles Augustus Lindbergh trained 17 years ago as an Army flyer. Later the holder of a reserve commission which he resigned April 28, 1941, he now wishes to be of service again. Though this man was against American involvement in war, so were many others. Yet since war has come, they wish to serve. Though this man repeatedly said that the war could not be won, and that to send military supplies to the Philip-pinas was to strip American home defense, he probably realizes now that the war MUST be won, CAN be won, and WILL be won.

It would be a mistake to reject the services of any man today who can prove by action that he is willing to help. It is today's action, not yesterday's word, that is the measure.

Nothing would be gained by making an issue of Lindbergh's case. As a matter of fact, it is not highly important.

Lindbergh trained as an Army flying cadet at Kelly and Brooks fields 17 years ago. He flew the mail briefly. He became a captain in the Missouri National Guard. After his civilian flight to Paris he was given a colonelcy which was largely honorary. He served brief tours of active duty in 1925, 1927, and 1939, the last largely inspectional. He has never done the refresher flying required as an equivalent. He learned much of European air forces, did considerable valuable exploratory work on routes abroad, all of which has been reported on and is presumed to have been available to the Army for several years. He is 39 years old, too old to fly actively in combat or to assume field command, for which he is not trained anyway. The Army has plenty of officers who trained as cadets at the same time as Lindbergh who have devoted the whole intervening 17 years to the air service.

Lindbergh's experience, unique as it is, should be used, and used in whatever way the Army authorities believe it most serviceable. The day war came, Lindbergh became just another man like all other men, with certain qualifications which the country should use to the best advantage.

Portrait of Judge
Harry Edwards To Be Unveiled Here

Ceremony To Take Place
in Circuit Court Room
Saturday Afternoon

Members of the bar associations of Carroll, Jo Daviess, Ogle and Stephenson counties, and several circuit judges of northern Illinois will be guests of the Lee County Bar Association at the unveiling of a large portrait of the late Judge Harry Edwards in the Lee County Circuit court room Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. County officers of the Fifteenth judicial circuit and members of the Lee county board of supervisors have been invited to attend the program.

Judge George C. Dixon, presiding judge at the January term of the Lee County Circuit court, will adjourn court Friday afternoon until the hour of the dedication exercises. Officers of the Lee County Bar Association have arranged a very fitting program, which will be presided over by Attorney Robert L. Bracken, president.

Hon. Clyde Smith, dean of the Lee county bar, will deliver the dedicatory address, and talks will be made by several of the visiting jurists. Arrangements are being made to accommodate a large gathering in the Circuit court room on this occasion.

Name Plate Bought

For many years four large oil paintings of former judges have hung in the court room without identification. The bar association recently purchased bronze name plates, giving the names of the former jurists and the date of their service on the bench, which have been placed on each painting, which represent the work of the late Herbert Conner of Amboy.

On Nov. 15, 1907 the oil paintings of Judges John V. Eustace who served from March 16, 1857 to July 1, 1861 and again from March 1, 1878 to Dec. 13, 1887; William W. Heaton who served from July 1, 1861 to Dec. 26, 1877 and John D. Crabtree who presided from June 9, 1888 to May 22, 1902 were unveiled in the circuit court room. On Nov. 20, 1920, the oil painting of Judge Richard S. Farrand who served from Aug. 1, 1902 to March 26, 1920 was unveiled. Added to this group of eminent jurists on Saturday will be the picture of Judge Harry Edwards who qualified as a circuit judge Aug. 16, 1920 and served until his death on Oct. 27, 1939.

Decorations Completed

Those attending the exercises Saturday afternoon will have an opportunity of inspecting the new improvements in the court house which have been made during recent months. Decorators are completing the refinishing of the corridors and many of the offices and numerous improvements have been made in the circuit court room, which represents the largest program of improvements since the court house was erected. A new and modern system of fluorescent lights replace the old incandescent system on the judge's bench, the court reporter's desk and the desk of the circuit clerk, which add materially to the general program of improvement in the court room. Plans are also under consideration for the improvement of the general lighting system in the court room, which has been recommended to the board of supervisors by the officers of the bar association.

Trial List of Lee
Court Is Made Up

NEWS
THE NEWS
By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Washington, Jan. 6.—Several notable successes have been scored by the U. S. Navy in submarine warfare in both the Pacific and Atlantic lately, but the navy has not been letting the news out. Accounts may not be available for weeks.

The theory behind censorship even of its own achievements is that axis vessels, far from home, do not communicate with headquarters sometimes for weeks. Their sending radio is kept dead to conceal their whereabouts. Consequently, Berlin and Tokyo cannot be sure, perhaps for a month or two of what it has afloat, if our navy keeps quiet about what has been sunk.

This constant talk about Stalin flying to Washington first came out of Budapest (a Nazi rumor factory) via Stockholm (where most of our axis grease in the news is handled these days). Up to last Monday night, at least, no one had invited Stalin to fly here and Stalin had indicated to no one that he wanted to. The idea never occurred to anyone except the axis greasers, desirous to mark his absence from the Roosevelt-Churchill meetings.

Lord Beaverbrook has just filed a report with his government on Stalin's religious views, which is supposed to be highly amusing. The smiles are not at Stalin's expense. The sufferers are Beaverbrook and Averill Harriman, FDR's emissary, who sounded out the Red leader in Moscow at a time when the religious aspects of the communist revolution in Russia were considered very pertinent in London and Washington, in connection with lend-lease.

Neither Beaverbrook nor Harriman were suited to the task, it will appear when the report gets out. Their acquaintance with the Bible was casual, whereas Stalin had spent two years in a Russian orthodox theological seminary when he was young.

The report readily admits he out-talked them. Mother Perkins, the labor secretary, has been bothering herself somewhat in the interest of William H. Davis, one of the chairmen of the new War Labor Board, but no one else has. Davis, chairman of the disintegrating Defense Mediation Board, has some friends there who say the unanimous distaste for him among the CIO, AFL, Chamber of Commerce and National Association of Manufacturers, make him an ideal candidate for the post.

About forty other names were in the lists placed a week ago on Roosevelt's desk. Near the top were James Landis, dean of the Harvard Law School, and Lloyd Garrison of the University of Wisconsin.

No one could ask for more cooperation than this congress is giving Roosevelt. Little opposition can be heard publicly and the only corridor criticism comes mainly from administration leaders, grumbling lightly about the way the war is going. Senate foreign relations chairman Tom Connally, for example, went down to the Navy Secretary Knox to find out "where the fleet is". All he could tell his colleagues on his return was that it is supposed to be out hunting Japs.

But illustrative of the general congressional tone is the case of the iconoclastic Senator Wheeler. The one thing he feared most for this country was the delegation of dictatorial powers to FDR. Now he is championing an administration bill allowing Roosevelt alone to decide the hour of the nation into daylight savings for one or two hours. Asked about it, Wheeler said: "Well, there is no other way."

In all, the new session marks no change from the old. It has the same leaders, same problems. A foreshadow of possible criticism against the conduct of the war has risen, but not very high yet.

The political gas and oil administrator, Ickes, suffered wing-clipping again in Roosevelt's order setting up the Office of Defense Transportation under Joe Eastman. The office will now decide about new pipelines and the Nelson priority division (SPAB) will decide about materials for pipelines.

Ickes and his merry men have an elegant rationing plan for gas and fuel oil all ready, but may not get a chance to use it. The Henderson auto and tire bans will curtail the use of cars and gas consumption increasingly, without other action. Too bad for Ickes. He tried so hard.

British Convinced

Anticipate Isles Will Be
Base of Invasion of Continent

(By The Associated Press)
President Roosevelt's announcement that a new AEF would be sent to England convinced many observers there today that the British Isles would be turned into a huge base for invasion of the continent.

Due to pressure in the Far East and the immediate needs in that area, they said they expected that the initial United States force sent to the United Kingdom would be a token unit composed of a small mechanized group and supporting aircraft.

It was pointed out that Britain's home defense force—the army, navy and British Empire troops, plus the home guard—ostensibly needed no United States army to defend the British Isles against the invasion which almost everyone thinks Hitler may launch early in the spring.

The return of the Yanks after 25 years was generally regarded as foreshadowing a western offensive which most Britishers have long been convinced must be undertaken eventually.

Training In Assaults
Already many of 125,000 Canadians and large contingents of British troops are being intensively trained in assault tactics of a type which have served the commands as well in "test" raids on Norwegian coast points.

The British exulted over Roosevelt's promise of American forces, and newspapers dipped back into the files of 1917 for pictures and stories of U. S. troops arriving in England.

On through the world, from Cuba to China, there was acclaim from the united nations and their friends for the great program announced yesterday by the president.

In the axis line-up a German radio commentator said that Roosevelt had added "nothing or little to what he has said in earlier and numerous speeches".

Called "Hypocrisy"
"Although the speech was fairly substantial it contained, besides an admission of America's military defeat, only Roosevelt's usual hypocrisy," the commentator continued.

"Roosevelt enriched his arsenal of phrases by the quotation 'the world is so small to provide sufficient living room for Hitler and God'. Obviously Roosevelt believes there is sufficient space for him to rule as God's governor, with the universe as his final goal."

Fascist circles in Italy called the speech "sensational, spectacular, of the typical North American brand", but said it was intended to impress the world and the population of the United States and therefore there was "no point in examining the figures" mentioned in it.

The fascist press so far had made no mention of the speech or the president's program to produce 185,000 planes in 1942 and 1943.

Church Societies

St. Agnes Guild—Mrs. George Hawley will be hostess to members of St. Agnes Guild, St. Luke's church, at 2:30 p. m. Friday.

W. M. S.—The W. M. S. of the Evangelical church will hold an all-day meeting on Thursday at the Clifford Floto home at the Kingdom.

Unity Guild—Mrs. A. G. Burnham and her daughter, Miss Edna, were hostesses to members of Unity Guild, Monday. A picnic luncheon was followed by a brief business meeting, and reports by Mrs. Maria Stackpole of Dr. Bradley's church bazar held Dec. 4-5.

Those attending brought their own needlework. On Feb. 5, the members will return to the Burnham home.

Meeting Postponed—The quarterly meeting which members of the First Baptist church had planned for this evening, has been postponed.

Candlelighters — Candlelighters of the Presbyterian church are to meet at 2:30 p. m. Friday at the home of Mrs. E. S. Rosecrans, 316 Dixon avenue.

Expect Red Cross
Campaign Will Be Finished Quickly

All Workers Ready to Begin Emergency
Fund Drive

"Lee county's quota of $7,100 to the half million dollar emergency Red Cross fund will be subscribed within a remarkably short time", Dixon township chairman Frank J. Robinson stated today, after outlining his plans for the opening of the campaign to start tomorrow without regard to weather conditions. "Every person who has been asked to serve in any capacity in connection with the campaign is very enthusiastic and because of this enthusiasm I believe that the total amount will be subscribed within a few days."

Chairman Robinson met last evening at the Chamber of Commerce with a committee of women, representatives of several organizations of the city, who will take an active part in organizing the campaign and carrying the program to a hasty completion. A final meeting has been called for this evening at 7:30, when workers will be assigned to every block in the city. These workers will start canvassing homes and places of business Thursday morning, receiving subscriptions to the emergency fund, and will present every subscriber with one of the special Red Cross "I Gave" buttons.

Township Quotas Fixed
Chairman Robinson cited as further evidence that no delay would be encountered in attaining the quota, the fact that several voluntary subscriptions have already been handed to officers of the county Red Cross organization. County Chairman Robert Sterling appeared before the members of the board of supervisors assembled in the regular January meeting yesterday and explained the proposed outline for the hasty campaign to attain Lee county's goal. In townships having no local Red Cross chapter, the supervisor will select his workers, who will assist in raising the amount assigned.

The county organization has computed the assessed valuations of each township in the county to reach a figure which will be expected to be subscribed by that township. Some supervisors reported having completed their organizations prior to the meeting of the board and anticipated that their quotas would be oversubscribed.

OPM Clarifies
Misimpression
Among Farmers

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 6.—"Retail consumers can not and must not be expected to produce preference rating certificates when placing normal orders for finished goods." Correcting a rather general misimpression among Illinois farmers in need of farm machinery, equipment and repair parts, this is the explanation received by the University of Illinois College of Agriculture from the priorities division of the Office of Production Management.

In the confusion incident to attacks upon the United States by axis powers, says OPM, many distributors of consumers' goods have told their customers they can not sell to them unless their orders are accompanied by preference rating certificates. This seems to have been most prevalent among dealers who handle metal products, particularly in the farm machinery and hand-tool fields.

LARGEST FISH
The white sturgeon is the largest fresh water fish in North America. It attains a weight of between 200 and 500 pounds.

SERIAL STORY

TAMBAY GOLD

BY SAMUEL HOPKINS ADAMS

COPYRIGHT, 1941,
NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Mom Baumer, 10 years on the road with her trailer "Feederia," wangles permission from Jane Ann Judson, last of the Mauries of run-down Tambay plantation, to set up her lunch wagon there. Her first customer (by invitation) is headstrong professor from nearby Welliver U. who is digging for Indian relics at Tambay. Then she asks Jane Ann to supper.

ANGEL GETS A CHILL

CHAPTER III

"I'm not rightly open for trade yet," I told Jane Ann, watching her face to see how the grub was setting. "There won't be anyone else unless the Indian digger comes in. Do you good to meet a little company."

"Please don't mind my not being clubby."

"I don't mind anything," I said. "Just to prove it, I'm going to shoot you full of questions."

"What kind of questions?" I could feel her tense up.

"Snoopy ones, of course. Nobody's got to look twice at you to see that you've been used to money. Plenty of it."

"There isn't plenty of it any more."

"Then what are you here for?" She hesitated over that. Then she must have figured that I was friendly. She said, "I've got to live somewhere. My theory is that I'll keep this up as long as I can and then go down with the ship."

"Maybe the ship won't go down," I said, for an idea was fermenting in the old brainpan.

"Maybe not," she said.

I tapped my garter and peeled off three ten-spots from the roll.

"What's this?" she said.

"The first month's rent."

I gave the space the once-over. There was plenty to be done before I could get going.

Weeds and scrub grew waist-high. I was just working up a nice sweat when a jalopy rattled in and a young Greek god got out. He was a big, square-shouldered, flat-backed, blond-haired bird with nice, friendly blue eyes and a Welliver football sweater.

"Hiya, Mom Baumer," he said.

"That's me," I said. "Pleased to meetcha, Big-and-Handsome."

"I'll be breakfast for me. I could eat a horse."

"Just out of horsemeat. Eggs. Ham or bacon. Giddle cakes. Coffee and toast."

"Right. That's my order," he said.

"Your night on the tiles hasn't spoiled your appetite, Big Boy," I said.

"Tiles, your eye!" he came back at me. "I've been gold prospecting."

"And this is the Hotel Ritz," I said.

"No, I mean it. Haven't you heard? It's headlined in the papers. They've struck gold again. Back in the Colony Hills."

"Find anything?" I asked.

"Not a sparkle. I've got no luck anyhow." And he smiled like a cherub on a pink cloud.

"You ought to be able to roll your own luck with that face and shape," I told him.

"Thanks," he said, finishing the last six cakes. "How about putting this on the hook, Mom? I'm Angel Todd."

So this was the Great Todd. Nevertheless and notwithstanding, as they used to say in Montana, rules are rules.

"Angel or devil, there's no tick here," I said. "That'll be sixty-five cents, please."

He spilled his cash-pocket, spreading out two quarters, three dimes, a nickel, and seven pennies.

"How much cash could I buy for twenty-seven cents?" he asked. "The old boat's about dry."

"Well, I want soft. I told him to put his money back. And then, while he was promising that

"Hiya, Toots," Angel called.

Jane Ann came over to the wagon steps and looked at him and didn't say a word. Only her eyebrows went up.

he'd be over to settle soon, his face lit up like a parade. I took a look outside, and there was Miss Jane Ann Judson, coming up from the riverbank.

"What's that?" Angel Todd said.

"My niece," I said, looking him in the eye.

"Any niece of yours is a niece of mine, Mom," he said. "Hiya, Toots!" he called.

She came over to the wagon steps and looked at him and then at me and she didn't say a word. Only her eyebrows went up.

"All right," I said. "Meet Miss Jane Ann Judson. This is Angel Todd. That name mean anything to you?"

"I'm afraid it doesn't," she said. "Should it?"

He looked like he didn't believe her. "Don't you ever read the sporting pages?" he said.

"Not the local ones."

I kind of liked the way he spotted her for class after his false start. "A probably All-America triple threat isn't exactly local," I told her.

"Oh!" she said. "Sorry." As an apology it was very cold-storage.

"Look," he said. "There's a basketball game Saturday. I'm playing. If I sent a couple of tickets, would you be interested?"

"Mom might. I wouldn't thank you," Jane Ann answered him.

"Well, look," he said. "You don't have to go this second, do you? Look, now. There's a Rogues' dance next week. You know; Chi Rho Gamma. What about that, girlie—I mean, Miss Judson?"

This found no market either. Jane Ann asked me if there was anything I wanted from town and went away. "What's the matter with her?" he said. "Or is it me?"

"Oh, you're all right, I guess," I said. "But Jane Ann Judson is nobody's yes-girl."

"You sure handed him the ice-tray," I told Jane Ann when she got back. "What's wrong with him?"

"Nothing special," she said. "Nothing at all, I guess."

"You've got to admit he's got something," I said. "Don't you get it at all?"

"You see," she said kind of tired, "I've seen him before."

"What goes on here?" I said.

"You know this bird?"

Veteran Sparring Partner Says Joe Louis Shows Class

Nicholson Declares the Champ is Better, Smarter Fighter

Greenwood Lake, N. Y., Jan. 7.—(AP)—It's nice, steady work with good pay, George Nicholson pointed out, but this business of being a regular sparring partner for Joe Louis is "gettin' to be mighty dangerous in times like this."

George ought to know. The angular "Cutty," the kind of boxer who's as hard to hit as Feller's fast ball on a cloudy afternoon, was a sparmate in Joe's camp in 1937 while the Bomber was training to win the title from Jim Braddock. Since then, Joe has had 20 camps, and George has been in 18 of them helping to sharpen the big axe.

And just to show you that George isn't the ordinary kind of punching bag, in some 200 rounds of boxing Joe has been able to set him down on his silk panties just once. "That time, I went into a crouch 'jes' once too often, instead of keepin' Joe guessin'," George admits.

Says Joe Is Better

The job has been so steady that George hasn't even bothered trying to get a fight in two years. So when he tells you that Joe, training for his heavyweight title tete-a-tete with Buddy Baer Friday night, is just as fast, a more deadly puncher and a "smarter fighter" than he was back there in the early days, you're listening to a guy who knows slightly more than one-and-one about the matter.

"He punches 'jes' as hard," George explained today as Joe put the finishing touches on his sparwork, "but the big difference is now he don't waste none of 'em. He shuffles in-like he always did, but he never swings wild. He keeps after you till he gets you in a sport, then—wham, he lets that thing go. That's what I mean when I tell you he's smarter. He thinks more, feints you more, and more than anything else, when he pulls the trigger he knows he's got you right where he can take your head off. He's got the range."

State's Racing Board Against Move to Bar Track Evening in '42

Chicago, Jan. 7.—(AP)—State officials are cooperating in the war effort but they oppose a move by the Cook county board of commissioners to abolish horse racing in Illinois for the duration of the war.

Maj. Eddy Williams, chairman of the Illinois Racing Board, said in a statement last night that "if there ever comes a time when racing retards the war effort, we shall be the first to suggest that it be curbed or abolished. However, we do not believe that such action is warranted at this time. In its annual report to Governor Green, the commission expressed the belief that racing would have a fine future in 1942. We have had no reason to change that belief."

The Cook county board, in its resolution sent to Governor Green and the legislature, declared racing would necessarily encumber transportation systems, use up manpower and materials, consume funds which could be diverted to defense bonds and endanger the lives of thousands crowded into small parks.

Other racing officials concurred with Major Williams.

Bradley's Cagers Win Six Straight

(By The Associated Press)

Illinois Wesleyan will open its Illinois College Conference campaign tonight against Illinois College of Jacksonville in the only league game billed in either of the two state conferences.

Illinois College will be striving for its second straight league win, having thumped Lake Forest in its inaugural. One member of the rival conference, the Illinois Intercollegiate league, also will be in action, the Eastern Illinois Teachers of Charleston playing at Cape Girardeau, Mo.

In last night's top performance, Bradley turned back West Texas State, 52 to 49, for its sixth consecutive triumph in intercollegiate combat. The Braves rallied after being behind at one time in the first period, 18 to 6.

The Great Lakes Naval Training Station team met its second defeat in 12 starts when Michigan State rallied to take the lead in the last half and then stalled out the last four minutes for a 33 to 31 victory.

Augustana checked a fast finishing Monmouth team in time to win a 36 to 34 Illinois College Conference game, while Lake Forest had to withstand a similar ruff in defeating Illinois Tech, 41 to 35.

Army Floors Dempsey With Long 11 Count

New York, Jan. 7.—(AP)—With the help of a long count of 11, the U. S. army has floored Jack Dempsey in the former heavyweight champ's attempt to enlist as a buck private.

Dempsey, 46, showed up yesterday at a recruiting office, passed his physical examination and was all ready to shoulder a gun and "meet Max Schmeling in Berlin." But there was that count—he's 11 years over the age limit for enlistments—and the Old Manassa Mauler must still his doughboy ambitions, the army said, "unless and until congress passes a law raising the age limit from 35 years."

'42 College Football Rules Remain; Some Clarifications Made

Governing Committee's Annual Session at Phoenix Ended

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 7.—(AP)—The 1942 college football rulebook remains almost exactly as it was last season, but the governing rules committee clarified a few points and wrote two stern frowns into the text on a couple of practices.

One raised eyebrow was directed at officials taking the easy way out in calling both teams off-side and, while the crowd yawned, making them replay the maneuver.

Advisory coaches sitting in at the rules meeting said it is apparent that one or the other eleven is off-side and there is a rule that says when one player draws another off-side, number one's team should get five yards—backward. The hideout, or sleeper play, where it is screened by substitutions, was also frowned upon and a 15-yard penalty attached for future reference. This type of play comes when a coach sends in, say, five players. In the confusion, six players start off the field—only one stops at the sideline and takes refuge in the cluster of chain-handlers, the headlineman and possibly eight photographers.

The sleeper play with the wide flanker is all right—but not under this kind of wrap.

Gone too, under the 1942 supplemented rules, is the reversed-center, which gained prominence last season on Ossie Solem's Syracuse team. It was described as the "Y-formation."

The new rule clarifications say that a player, to be legally on the line of scrimmage, must face his opponents' end line, and his feet must be behind the ball.

Another supplemental note provides that in the last two minutes of a half a referee may start or stop the clock, if in his opinion, one team or the other is intentionally trying to delay a game by sending in substitutes.

It also more sharply defined the last two-minute rule to prescribe that when the referee has finally and definitely put the ball into place ready for play, no sub can be sent in without bringing a five-yard penalty along with him.

Crossing Crash in Morrison Fatal to 2 Youths Monday

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury which met in Morrison Tuesday to investigate a grade crossing crash which proved fatal to Darlene Brown, 16, of Morrison, and Ralph Morphey, 17, of Prophetstown. The jury found that Miss Brown died of a skull fracture and Morphey of an abdominal rupture.

An automobile in which the two young people were riding, along with Clifford Presnell, 16, of Prophetstown, was struck by the Chicago & North Western railroad streamliner, City of San Francisco, at the Geneseo street crossing in Morrison Monday night.

Miss Brown died instantly and Morphey succumbed at 3 a. m. Tuesday at the Morrison hospital.

Condition of Presnell, who has a possible broken pelvis, cuts and bruises was reported to be unchanged at the hospital.

Morphey was driving the car at the time of the crash. The train crew was unaware of the crash until the train stopped at Clinton, Ia., where it was discovered that steps had been torn from one side of a steam locomotive which was ahead of the Diesel powered train.

Stricter Control of Aliens Is Considered Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Attorney General Biddle said today that the government was considering a re-registration of the 1,100,000 enemy aliens in this country to provide "tighter control" along the lines followed during the first World War.

Talking at a press conference, Biddle said that the idea would be to provide an identification card which every German, Italian and Japanese national in this country would be required to carry. The card would bear the picture of the alien.

The advisability of instituting stricter control was being considered, he said, and he indicated that a decision would be made soon.

Biggest Budget in

(Continued from Page 1) type of levy might become necessary on a temporary basis. Saying that taxes were important not only to finance the war but also to prevent inflation, he asserted, "any tax is better than an uncontrolled price rise". The president, however, offered a little bright news to the general public, too. He said the nation's productive resources were enough in spite of diversions to war output to enable the people "to maintain a standard of living more than adequate to support the health and productivity of our people. x x x I do not at present propose general consumer ration cards".

Non-Defense Costs Cut Non-military agencies of the government, the president said will be cut more than $1,000,000,000 in their next year's budgets. He predicted work relief costs would go down from $942,430,000 this fiscal year to $480,075,000 next year; that farm aid would decline from $1,117,082,000 to $854,050,000; that aid to youth costs (CCC and NYA) would fall from $235,000,000 to $100,000,000, and cited other savings on administrative expenses of other agencies and public works.

Roads not needed for defense, postoffices, and other public works considered non-essential would get no money, he said, unless they were already under construction. He said he hoped congress would skip its usual blanket road-building grants to states.

He called upon the public to lend the government through purchase of defense bonds and other government securities—upwards of $23,000,000,000. "When so many Americans," he said in his annual budget message to congress, "are contributing all their energies and even their lives to the nation's great task, I am confident that our Americans will be proud to contribute their utmost in taxes. Until this job is done, until this war is won, we will not talk of burdens".

Specifically, he asked $2,000,000,000 increase in social security taxes and $7,000,000,000 of other taxes from almost any source except a general sales tax. "Wants Workers Protected" To present social security taxes include: for old age pensions, 1 per cent of payrolls; each on employers and employees; for unemployment insurance, 3 per cent of payrolls on employers. In asking for $2,000,000,000 extra from these sources, he explained that he expected increases in each of these percentages, especially the old age taxes which he said would go automatically to 2 per cent each on employer and employee but ought to go still higher.

He added, however, that he opposed using social security taxes for war financing "unless the worker is given his full money's worth in increased social security". Therefore, he proposed that for their extra war taxes, workers get federal disability insurance, hospitalization benefits, and more liberal unemployment compensation. He also asked that social security be extended to types of workers not now included in the program.

Stiff income taxes were virtually assured in the opinion of congressional leaders. The basic individual income tax now is about 10 per cent of the taxable portion of a person's income. Treasury proposals in the making may raise this bottom rate to nearly 25 per cent.

To help people meet such stiff taxes, the president urged congress to consider methods of collecting them at the source, usually by deducting a proportionate amount of them from the weekly paychecks. He also suggested at a press conference that extra taxes might be required to be paid monthly instead of in one to four installments, as at present.

Corporations were in for heavier income taxes, too, especially of the excess profits type.

Lee County Board of Supervisors Adjourns

The Lee county board of supervisors concluded its brief January meeting yesterday afternoon. It was reported that the board might decide to resume meetings quarterly because of the shortage of automobile tires and the resultant restrictions, but no action was taken.

A resolution presented by the road and bridge committee was adopted appropriating $8,000 from the county motor fuel tax fund to be used on the County home road improvement. The board originally appropriated $10,000 to be used in making this improvement to the county highway system, after which the project was divided into two sections. To date the sum of $12,856.41 has been expended on the road, not including the cost of a bridge on which construction is held up because of inability to secure steel.

Illinois Will Lose Heavily Under Auto Sales Prohibition

Chicago, Jan. 7.—(AP)—During 1942 Illinois will lose $8,000,000 or $10,000,000 in taxes because of rationing of automobiles and taxes, and possibly $16,000,000 through the reduced sales tax, state Finance Director George B. McKibbin estimates.

The state cannot assume, he said, that money formerly spent for new cars and tires will be spent for other consumer goods, and thus yield a sales tax. Much of the spending power is expected to flow into defense bonds, which are untaxed.

Firemen On Two Ruins—

An automobile driven by L. E. Cramer, route 4, was damaged by fire this morning when the owner drove to Dixon and at Crawford avenue and Seventh street, discovered a lively blaze burning in the rear seat. The fire department was called and extinguished the blaze which caused considerable damage to the upholstery. About noon yesterday the department was called to the Tom Burke residence at 1015 North Jefferson avenue. Mr. Burke was thawing out frozen water pipes and a fire resulted, causing but slight damage, which was covered by insurance.

Two Proposals Approved

Earlier the Democratic bloc defeated the administration bill which would have transferred $1,000,000 from the state highway construction to the maintenance fund and the day's developments indicated the special session might come to a quick end. Thus far, Governor Green has won approval of only two major bills in the special session, one appropriating $5,000,000 for the state Reserve Militia and another setting up a $750,000 fund for the State Defense Council, Democrats supported those proposals.

The senate, meanwhile, postponed indefinitely a scheduled vote on the bill to set up a $3,000,000 defense contingent fund for the governor.

Republicans argued the highway fund transfer was needed to meet wartime needs for highway maintenance, but Democratic spokesmen continued it was a move to provide more highway jobs and to divorce these payrolls from the federal Hatch anti-politics law.

Vicars said the Democratic position was that no increase in taxes was needed in the present police personnel of 350 men, and that the health department expansion likewise was unnecessary to defense.

Amid talk that the special session might be adjourned quickly if the remaining key bills in the governor's program go down to defeat, Republicans pushed toward expected passage two minor bills of the administration series.

One would appropriate $197,000 for an exhaustive survey of natural resources in Illinois, particularly water and oil reserves. The other would amend the criminal code to prescribe severe penalties for persons convicted of illegal possession of disease germ cultures. Both of these bills were approved late yesterday by the Democratic caucus, which was attended by Gov. Green, John Steele and Arthur A. Sullivan, Democratic state chairman, as well as legislators.

Meanwhile, the legislature advanced on the calendar five new bills pertaining to automobile license numbers punishable by six months jail term and fines up to $200. Another measure would forbid selling of defective tires.

Netherlands Indies.

Davao's role in the enemy's grand strategy was clarified by the amplified report on the successful raid which U. S. Army bombers carried out against Japanese naval units there on Monday.

The initial war department communiqué credited the bombers with sinking one destroyer, scoring three direct hits on a battleship, and inflicting damage on other vessels.

A supplementary report late yesterday, indicated that the bombers had taken an even heavier toll, and simultaneously it disclosed that important Japanese naval strength had been concentrated in Davao Bay.

"It now seems probable that more than one destroyer was sunk," the war department said. "Numerous hits on other vessels are believed to have caused extensive damage".

The Japanese fleet there, the department revealed, consisted of the one battleship, five cruisers, six destroyers, 12 submarines and 12 transports.

The size and composition of this fleet offered definite evidence that its mission was not to support landing operations. With Davao in Japanese hands since before the fall of Manila, such a force would be too numerous.

The explanation appeared to be in Davao's location with reference to other Japanese bases and the Netherlands Indies. The Bay of Davao, a wide and deep locked anchorage, lies in southeastern end of Mindanao, the second-largest of the Philippine islands and the only one of any size in the southernmost part of the chain.

As a naval base, it would put the Japanese within easy striking distance of Dutch Borneo, rich in oil fields; Celebes and New Guinea. Davao also would help to offset the value of the major Dutch naval base on the island of Amboina which lies almost due south.

Much More Farm Work Needed to Meet 1942 Goals

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 6.—For Illinois to produce her 1942 share of food-for-freedom require the work of 17,000 extra men for a year, the addition of a month of labor for each farm in Illinois, or a comparable increase in the amount of work done by each farm worker.

Fortunately for the defense of the country, farmers are now better equipped with labor-saving machinery than ever before to meet the emergency, according to P. E. Johnston, agricultural economist of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, who has just completed a review of Illinois' production goals and farmers' intentions for 1942.

These figures reveal that Illinois farmers intend to increase the production of food-for-freedom considerably beyond the goals requested by the Secretary of Agriculture for 1942. Production of eggs will be increased 23 per cent, milk 11.9 per cent, hogs for market 27.8 per cent, beef cattle and calves for market 8.5 per cent, soybeans 39.9 per cent and farm gardens 2.5 per cent. All of these increases are in excess of the requested goals, except beef cattle and home gardens.

Some difficulty may be experienced in attaining the goals, since the increased production will require large inputs of both feed and labor, Johnston believes. He estimates that the added production will require a feed input of 40 million bushels of corn, 104,000 tons of protein supplement and 303,000 tons of hay. The added corn input would be equal to 10 per cent of the 1941 Illinois production.

Farm account records indicate that farmers have not been putting in as many hours at farm work in recent years as they did before the introduction of general-purpose tractors, combines and two-row corn pickers. If farmers work on an average as many hours as they did in 1932 they can increase their labor input 25 per cent for each worker, which will be more than enough to get the added production if as many workers are available in 1942 as in 1941. Unfortunately, the labor supply will not be uniformly distributed and there will be acute labor shortages in some areas.

Illinois farmers will find it both patriotic and profitable to get the maximum production from their labor equipment in 1942, for farm prices will be more favorable than for any recent period, Johnston said. For this reason, every effort should be made to keep labor-saving machinery in good repair, as replacements will be difficult to obtain.

General commercial printing in 1939 amounted to $515 million. It was carried on in 9,595 shops employing 96,039 persons.

We wish to call your attention to items which are sent to us. We send our items every Monday at about four o'clock and also again on Thursday. We did appreciate your efforts to get us items but please try and get them to us while they are news. Any item that is left at various places do not reach us until about six o'clock too late for that days items. Sometimes they from necessity need be a little old but to have to hold them over until Thursday makes it doubly old. We want all the news all the time, when it is possible get it in early. We thank you.

Here at Brother's Home
Miss Nora Turnbaugh who recently submitted to a very serious operation in Oak Park is now in the home of her brother, L. W. Sheap and daughters where she will remain until fully recovered.

Obituary
William Augustus Guptill, son of Aaron and Kate Guptill, was born in New York state April 12, 1868, and departed this life at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Margaret Patterson on December 29, 1941, at the age of 73 years, 8 months and 17 days.

When 12 years of age he came to Franklin Grove. April 29, 1891 he was united in marriage to Susan Catherine Suam of Franklin Grove. Here the happy young couple made their home for some four or five years. They then moved to Dixon and a little later on to South Dixon where he made his home for the past forty-seven years.

Forty-four of these forty-seven years he lived within a half mile of the St. James Lutheran church where he was faithful in attendance and support. For many years he was janitor of the church and took much pride in its upkeep.

His many friends are a living testimony of his neighborly love, friendship, generosity, patience and cheerfulness.

His wife and one daughter Mrs. Minetta Spangler have preceded him in death and he leaves to miss him and to mourn his going: two daughters Mrs. Margaret Patterson, of Franklin Grove, and Mrs. Ruth Mavis of Dixon; six grandchildren, Miss Elsie Spangler, Raymond Patterson of Franklin Grove, Sheldon, Theodore, Wilbur, Jr., and Arthur Maves of Dixon; three half sisters: Mrs. Emily Glendinning, Mrs. Louise Edith Miller and Mrs. Susan Eishenthuth; two half brothers, Harold Guptill and Richard Guptill all of New York state; a number of nieces, nephews and other relatives and an innumerable host of friends.

What was his creed?
I do not know his creed, I only know that here below he walked the common road
And lifted many a load, lightened the task,
Brightened the day for others toiling on a weary way;
This, his only need; I do not know his creed.

What his creed? I never heard him speak
Of visions rapturous, or Alpine peak.
Of doctrine, dogma, new or old;
But this I know, he was forever bold
To stand alone, to face the challenge of each day,
And live the truth, so far as he could see—
The truth that evermore makes free.

His creed? I care not what his creed;
Enough that never yields he to greed,
But served a brother in his daily need;
Plucked many a thorn and planted many a flower;
Glorified the service of each hour;
Had faith in God, himself, and fellow-man;
Perchance he never thought in terms of creed—
I only know he lived a life, in deed.

"So live that when thy summons come to join the innumerable caravan which moves to that mysterious realm, where each shall take his chamber in the silent halls of death, thou go not, like the quarry-slave at night, scourged to his dungeon, but sustained and soothed by an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave like one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him, and lies down to pleasant dreams."

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon from the Hicks funeral home and later at the St. James church. Rev. Timothy Reeves of the Methodist church had charge of the services. Mrs. Charles Howard and Miss Bertha Zoeller, accompanied by Mrs. W. L. Moore, sang the funeral hymns. Burial was in the Emmert cemetery. Casketbearers were: Fred J. Krehl, Will Phillips, Bert Linderman, Charles Whitebread, Charles Shippert, Charles Breimer.

Obituary

on January 1, 1942, at the age of 72 years, 11 months, 3 days.

At the age of six years he moved with his parents to the homestead of his grandfather Jacob Riddlebarger where he lived continuously for the balance of his life.

On January 28, 1892, he was united in marriage to Dora Wolf and their home was blessed with two sons, Jay E. and Leroy J. and one daughter, Minnie M. by adoption.

He was energetic, alert and of a jovial disposition. He was a devoted husband and father and was a kind and helpful neighbor and friend.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Dora, by his brother, Elmer, also two other brothers, Homer and Albert, died in infancy.

He is survived by his sons and daughter previously mentioned and by eight grandchildren, June, Gerald, Jeanette and Audra Miller and Elaine, Betty, Eleanor and Eugene Reisinger, and by two nieces, Katherine Conlon and Ruth Kelley and many other relatives and friends.

Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me;
And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea.

But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound or foam;
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark;
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark.

For though, from out our bourne
Of time and place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face,
When I have crossed the bar.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon from the Hicks funeral home. Rev. S. L. Cover had charge of the services, assisted by Rev. O. D. Buck. Gov. Green Warns Auto Owners of Tire Rack
Springfield, Ill., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Governor Green warned Illinois motorists today against "racketeers" selling inferior reconditioned or rebuilt automobile tires.

"I have been informed that a number of concerns in various parts of the state are already taking advantage of the tire rationing situation to put on the market reconditioned tires of very poor quality for which they are asking exorbitant prices," the governor said in a statement.

"These racketeers are picking up discarded and worn out tires which are beyond any usefulness and are doing a shoddy job of reconditioning them. In addition to the fraudulent prices which are being asked for this poor merchandise, there is a danger of accidents through blowouts."

A new Japanese airliner, the HT-3, has been designed to carry two pilots, eight passengers and 240 pounds of baggage. The craft's ability to operate in and out of short fields makes it ideal for use among the Japanese islands.

Truck's Cargo of Glass Unbroken

A truck belonging to the Goldblatt Trucking Co., of Omaha, Neb., loaded with 21,000 pounds of crated plate glass, was overturned at the intersections of U. S. route 51 and 30 Monday night at 11 o'clock in a freak accident. The truck was badly damaged, the driver escaped unhurt and not a single piece of the glass was broken. It was necessary to transfer the entire load before the truck could be righted.

An empty stock truck belonging to a fleet operated by H. A. Hadden of Morrison, west bound, had stopped at the intersection of the two highways and the Omaha truck which was following crashed into the Whiteside county truck. The force of the impact threw the Morrison truck across the intersection near tourist cabins at the M. J. Crull service station, where it rolled over on its side. The driver of the stock truck was rendered unconscious, but was not seriously injured. One side of his truck and a portion of the deck was torn away.

The truck carrying crated plate glass overturned on its side at the intersection of the two highways and the wreckage was not cleared away until 6 o'clock Tuesday morning. The Omaha driver was uninjured, but the truck, which was badly damaged, was hauled to Shabbona after the cargo had been transferred to another truck.

At 2:30 Tuesday morning another truck belonging to the Morrison firm broke down near the intersection while proceeding east loaded with 80 fat hogs. It was necessary to send another truck from Morrison and transfer the hogs, which required several hours, the truckers working in below zero temperature.

NIGHT ACCIDENTS
Two-thirds of the motor accidents in the United States occur between sunset and sunrise, when only one-third of the driving takes place.

VITAMIN OIL
The burbot, a fresh-water member of the cod family, yields oil found to be 10 times richer in vitamins than cod liver oil.

Steinkopff New Head Tuberculosis Control

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Dr. E. K. Steinkopff of Milwaukee, medical consultant to the Anti-Tuberculosis Association of Wisconsin, has been appointed chief of the state health department's tuberculosis control division. State Health Director Roland R. Cross said that Dr. Steinkopff, a graduate of the University of Illinois medical school in 1928, would inaugurate a new program to check the increase of tuberculosis in Illinois. The disease continued to gain in 1940 and 1941, Dr. Cross said.

Naval Supremacy in Far East as Quickly as Possible Planned

Singapore, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Vice Admiral Sir Geoffrey Layton, commander in chief of Britain's Far Eastern fleet, has left Singapore to organize the eastern fleet "so that the allies may gain sea supremacy in the Far East as soon as possible," it was officially announced today.

People's Column

APPECIATION
The Goodfellows are surely deserving of much praise for the courageous way they went about spreading Christmas cheer in Dixon homes which otherwise would have been bleak. These discouraging war conditions made it hard for many to feel the Christmas spirit as of yore, but the Goodfellows did all they could to make this a happy, never-to-be-forgotten Yuletide season. May they be richly rewarded with success and happiness through the coming years.

ABOUT TEA
Difference between black tea and green tea is in the manufacture, with the fermentation process being omitted if green tea is desired. Both, however, come from the same plant.

OLDEST ENGLISH HOUSE
Minster Abbey, on the Isle of Thanet, near Margate, England, is said to be the oldest house in that country. It dates back to King Egbert, of Kent, in the ninth century.

Mere Laxatives Often Not Enough

In these days of worry, nervous strain and faulty habits, it's no wonder the stomach sometimes gets overworked and clogged bowels often "cry out" for help! More than just a laxative is often needed. When you feel low, nervous, sickly and played-out, what you may need is to wake up both the stomach and bowels in their digestive and eliminative functions. You can do it without drastic drugs. Just get Dr. Peter Fahrney's genuine stomachic tonic prescription called ALPEN KRAUTER... today.

ALPEN KRAUTER is a great deal more than just another laxative. It is a real internal medicine. It helps the stomach to digest food. It regulates the bowels, increases elimination by way of the kidneys. It helps ease away that exaggerated feeling of bowel gas and bloot. So don't wait. Ask for ALPEN KRAUTER today.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Take as directed. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. 10c and 25c.
